I gaze upon your misty face at even
Athwart the golden chambers of the west,
When ever-changing glories of the heaven
Build up a broken splendour in thy breast

Southeast it blew,
And sweeping landward,
Stirred the gaunt arms
of the uncertain net-reels
With a slow, unwilling motion.

Sheer away
To the misty line of light,
Where the Forest and the Stream
In the shadow meet and plight
Like a dream.

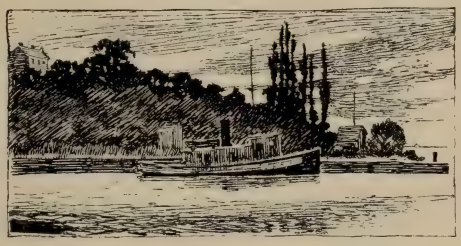
AN OLD CANAL



There are miles and miles of waters
That throb like a woman's breast,
With a glad harmonious motion,
Like happiness caught at rest.

W. W. Campbell.

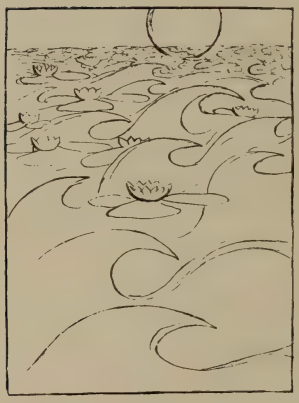
Domed with the azure of heaven,
Floored with a pavement of pearl,
Clothed all about with a brightness
Soft as the eyes of a girl,

Girt with a magical girdle,
Rimmed with a vapor of rest—
These are the inland waters,
These are the lakes of the West.

W. W. Campbell

Through crests of the hoarse tide swing,
Clove sheer the sweep of her bow;
There was loosed the ice-roaring of spring,
From the jaws of her prow, —
Of the long red swan full wing, the long red swan full wing.

BLISS CARMAN



JEAN ADAMS-JEFFERYS

The ringing steels resound;
And gleams the glowing sheen
To feet of beauty bound:
